

Amendment to the Specification

Please rewrite the Abstract as follows:

A computer network has at least ~~[[on]]~~ one computer operatively connected to an electronic device. The computer measures the response time for data transfers between the computer and the electronic device. The measured data response times are compared to preselected data response times and an indication is provided if the measured response time exceeds the preselected response time.